

AL HARPS: Orchestrating Security, Preventing Breaches Aspiring Cybersecurity Analyst | Expertise in Network Security & Threat Detection

Driven by a passion for safeguarding information and critical infrastructure, I embarked on my cybersecurity journey early in my career. From 1997 to 2004, I held various positions at Bank of America Financial Operations, where I developed strong networking skills and managed critical operations to ensure data security.

Recently, I completed Coursera's Cybersecurity Specialization and have been actively engaged in hands-on projects to stay at the forefront of emerging threats and technologies. My experience includes:

- ✓ Monitoring global networks to detect anomalies and ensure availability.
- ✓ Troubleshooting security issues to maintain secure and efficient operations.
- ✓ Implementing security protocols to safeguard systems and data.

These experiences have equipped me with a solid foundation in network security and threat detection, and I'm eager to contribute my skills, dedication, and passion for cybersecurity to a professional team.

 Explore my website to learn more about my projects, expertise, and experience—and connect with me for opportunities in cybersecurity.